1. Things That Went Well

Backend Development went well, we had regular meetings and peer programming sessions, our work was done way before the deadline.

2. Things That Could Have Gone Better

The frontend team will have to communicate more as their work was incoherent and they could not get the implementation ready in time

3. Things That Surprised Us

Linking frontend to the backend was very hard and it cost us a lot of time.

4. Lessons Learned

Communicate more

Push frequently

Check compatibility before working

5. Final Thoughts

Make sure to keep up good communication and test our product compatibilities.
